Dear Chairman Wheeler:

I attended the rally for Net Neutrality outside FCC Commissioner Pai's forum at Texas A&M University on Oct. 21, 2014. Though I cannot share my comments with you in person, I would like to do so in writing:

1. The open structure of the internet is different from the license based format of Radio or TV.

2. This open format fosters creativity and innovation

3. a regulated internet would prefer the wealthy at the expense of civil society.

4. The internet is immediate (Continue on back if needed)
important in emergency response / mobilizing

Dear Chairman Wheeler:

I attended the rally for Net Neutrality outside FCC Commissioner Pai's forum at Texas A&M University on Oct. 21, 2014. Though I cannot share my comments with you in person, I would like to do so in writing:

I support an unregulated internet.
I believe that the regulations of the FCC that Commissioner Pai supports, which would place large media corporations in charge of a crucial medium for sharing information, are bad for our democracy.

WE ARE CITIZENS (and producers),
NOT JUST CONSUMERS!!

IT SEEMS THATS ISPs WANT THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS - LOW COMPETITION
IN A HIGHLY PROTECTED INDUSTRY AND LOW REGULATION OF THEIR USE OF PUBLICLY GRANTED MONOPOLY POSITIONS.
I EITHER WANT A GENUINE MARKETPLACE
OR REGULATION TO CONSTRAIN MONOPOLISTIC
BEHAVIOR. TO DO NEITHER IS CRONY
CAPITALISM, AND THAT IS NEITHER LIBERAL NOR CONSERVATIVE.

AS A COMMUNITY ORGANIZER AND EDUCATOR, I BELIEVE THAT INTERNET ACCESS IS IMPORTANT IN OUR DAILY LIVES. REGULATING THE INTERNET WILL LIMIT THAT ACCESS BASED OFF OF INCOME. WE ALL NEED EQUAL ACCESS TO THE INTERNET. EDUCATION SHOULD BE AT THE FOREFRONT FOR THE FCC TO MAKE A DECISION ON NET NEUTRALITY.

I attended the rally for Net Neutrality outside FCC Commissioner Pai's forum at Texas A&M University on Oct. 21, 2014. Though I cannot share my comments with you in person, I would like to do so in writing:

As a person of color, it is extremely important that my voice is heard. Communication is a human right, and the internet is key to that communication. For communities of color, it is ~~more~~ important that we would have the open platform to tell our stories. I am concerned with the direction the FCC is taking and hope that the FCC ultimately decides to side with the voices of the people.

I believe that the principles of net neutrality that have worked so well in the past should be maintained and enforced. The Open Internet is the key to continued innovation. Creating priority access or "fast lanes" would only destroy that innovation. Please do what you can to keep the net neutral.

I attended the rally for Net Neutrality outside FCC Commissioner Pai's forum at Texas A&M University on Oct. 21, 2014. Though I cannot share my comments with you in person, I would like to do so in writing:

There are many threats facing the internet in the world today, and the FCC is faced with the duty to act. It is imperative that internet service be ~~not~~ classified as common carrier, to protect against discrimination.

The merger of Time Warner Cable/Comcast serves to further entrench monopolies and should be stopped.

I strongly believe that the internet should remain open and neutral. It is so important that ordinary citizens have free and open access to information. By free, I don't mean no cost. But I do support subsidies for students and citizens who can not afford internet access. Please do what you can to keep our access to free thought open.
